

SECOND QUARTERLY 2026 NEWS LETTER

Update on Investment Leads, Case studies, FDI trends

CEO's MESSAGE

Dear distinguished readers, stakeholders, partners, and friends,

Welcome to the VFIPA April-June 2026 Quarterly Newsletter. It is my pleasure to share the progress, achievements, engagements, and initiatives undertaken by the Vanuatu Foreign Investment Promotion Agency (VFIPA) during the second quarter of 2026.

The second quarter has been a period of continued engagement, collaboration, and preparation as VFIPA advances the implementation of the Vanuatu Investment Promotion Strategy (IPS) 2026-2030. During this period, VFIPA continued to engage with investors, businesses, government stakeholders, and development partners to promote Vanuatu as an attractive investment destination and to facilitate investment opportunities that contribute to sustainable economic development.

At the national level, VFIPA continued its engagement with the business community, including discussions and preparations for a Breakfast Forum in Santo, which will provide an important platform to engage businesses and stakeholders, understand their priorities, and promote investment opportunities in the province. VFIPA also continued the collection of information through its Annual Investment Survey, with 28 February 2026 serving as the cut-off date for submissions. The information gathered through this process is important in strengthening VFIPA's understanding of investment activity in Vanuatu and supporting evidence-based investment promotion and facilitation.

International engagement also remained an important part of VFIPA's work during the quarter. We continued our discussions and collaboration with PTI China, exploring opportunities to strengthen investment linkages, promote Vanuatu's priority sectors, and connect Vanuatu with potential investors in the Chinese market. These partnerships are particularly important as VFIPA expands its targeted international outreach in line with the IPS 2026-2030.

VFIPA also continued to identify and develop investment-ready opportunities, while strengthening relationships with existing investors and stakeholders. Through investment profiling, investor engagement, facilitation, and aftercare, we are working to ensure that investment opportunities in Vanuatu are better positioned for both local and international investors.

The progress made during this quarter reflects the commitment and collective efforts of the VFIPA team, together with the support of our government partners, private-sector stakeholders, development partners, and investors. Investment promotion is a shared responsibility, and strong collaboration is essential to creating an enabling environment where businesses can invest, grow, and contribute to Vanuatu's economic development.

As we move into the second half of 2026, VFIPA will continue to focus on implementing the IPS 2026-2030, expanding targeted investment promotion, strengthening investor facilitation and aftercare, developing quality investment opportunities, and deepening our engagement with priority international markets.

Thank you for your continued support and partnership. We look forward to continuing this important work together and to creating more investment opportunities that generate sustainable economic benefits for Vanuatu and its people.

Warm Regards,

Mr. Raymond Vuti
CEO, Vanuatu Foreign Investment Promotion Agency (VFIPA)

VFIPA Advances Targeted Investment Promotion Through China Engagement

As the Vanuatu Foreign Investment Promotion Agency (VFIPA) moves forward with the implementation of its first formal Investment Promotion Strategy (IPS) 2026–2030, the Agency has taken an important step towards a more targeted and proactive approach to attracting foreign investment by identifying China as its first priority foreign investment market.

The IPS 2026–2030 provides VFIPA with a clearer framework for moving beyond general investment promotion towards a more focused model of market targeting, investor identification, investment lead development and investor facilitation. The Strategy recognises that effective investment promotion requires VFIPA to understand priority markets, identify potential investors and establish sustained relationships that can support investment projects from initial interest through to implementation.

China was selected as VFIPA's first targeted market, building on the existing economic and investment relationship between China and Vanuatu, as well as opportunities to deepen engagement with Chinese businesses and investors. China represents an important market for VFIPA's investment promotion efforts, particularly in areas aligned with Vanuatu's priority investment sectors. These include tourism, agribusiness, renewable energy, infrastructure, manufacturing, logistics, ICT and other emerging areas of economic activity.

VFIPA's engagement is therefore not limited to promoting Vanuatu generally as an investment destination. The approach is increasingly focused on identifying specific investment opportunities and connecting them with potential investors whose interests and capabilities align with opportunities available in Vanuatu. This targeted approach is consistent with the direction of the IPS 2026–2030 and represents an important step in putting the Strategy into practical action.

A key component of VFIPA's China engagement has been its close working relationship with Pacific Trade Invest (PTI) China. The partnership is helping VFIPA strengthen its connections with the Chinese business community, improve access to market intelligence and prepare for direct engagement with prospective investors. VFIPA has previously worked with PTI China on business and investment engagement, including discussions with local businesses and entrepreneurs. These engagements have supported investment match-making, market connections and greater awareness of opportunities available between Vanuatu and China.

Ms. Jane Ma, Investment Manager and Head of Investment at PTI China, has been working closely with VFIPA in preparation for the upcoming Business Mission to China. Her engagement has been particularly valuable in helping VFIPA understand the Chinese investment environment, identify potential business connections and develop opportunities for meaningful investor meetings.

VFIPA also acknowledges the continued support of Mr. Mona, Trade Commissioner for PTI China, whose cooperation has contributed to strengthening the working relationship between PTI China and VFIPA and advancing preparations for the mission.

The initiative is being supported through proactive discussions between VFIPA's Chief Executive Officer, Mr. Raymond Vuti, and the Head of Investment Promotion & Facilitation, Mr. Alick Robsen Joe, who are working closely with PTI China to identify opportunities, strengthen institutional linkages and advance the objectives of the mission.

In Qingdao, independent investor Mr. Max is also supporting the mission and will participate in planned engagements with the business community. His involvement provides an additional connection to the Qingdao business environment and supports VFIPA's objective of developing relationships with potential investors, entrepreneurs and business stakeholders.

The inclusion of local business connections within the mission programme is particularly important because successful investment promotion depends not only on presenting investment opportunities, but also on establishing trusted relationships and maintaining engagement beyond the initial meeting.

A major focus of the China Business Mission will be to showcase Vanuatu's investment potential through a combination of sector information, investment-ready opportunities and direct investor engagement. VFIPA will highlight opportunities across priority areas while demonstrating the Agency's role in supporting investors throughout the investment process. Particular attention will be given to opportunities where Vanuatu's natural resources, geographic position, growing infrastructure and market potential can provide a basis for new investment.

VFIPA's website also continues to provide information on investment opportunities and positions the Agency as a gateway for investors seeking information and facilitation support in Vanuatu. The China Business Mission marks an important early step in VFIPA's implementation of the IPS 2026–2030 and demonstrates the Agency's commitment to a more proactive and targeted investment promotion model. Through its collaboration with PTI China and other partners, VFIPA is working to establish stronger links with the Chinese business community and create new opportunities for investment in Vanuatu.

As VFIPA continues implementing the IPS 2026–2030, targeted international engagement such as the China initiative will form an important part of the Agency's efforts to attract, facilitate and expand investment that contributes to Vanuatu's economic development.

The China initiative therefore represents more than an overseas promotional activity. It is an early practical example of how VFIPA's IPS 2026–2030 is being translated into action through targeted international engagement, strategic partnerships and investment facilitation.

Investment STORIAN-Aftercare & Advocacy TEAM

Turning Vanuatu's Sandalwood into Value: New Processing Facility Strengthens Local Manufacturing

Vanuatu is taking an important step toward strengthening local manufacturing and increasing the value generated from its natural resources with the establishment of a new sandalwood oil distillation and wood-processing facility in Port Vila.

Developed by Natural Treasures Vanuatu Ltd, the investment represents an estimated VT20–21 million (approximately AUD 250,000) initial investment into Vanuatu's manufacturing sector. The project is supported by the Vanuatu Foreign Investment Promotion Agency (VFIPA) and the Government of Vanuatu through the Ministry of Agriculture.

The facility represents a shift from exporting raw sandalwood toward processing and adding value locally before products reach international markets. Through local processing, Vanuatu has an opportunity to retain a greater share of the economic value generated from its sandalwood resources while creating new opportunities for farmers, workers, businesses and exporters.

A key feature of the investment is the company's intention to source sandalwood directly from local growers. By establishing a more direct connection between farmers and the processing facility, the business aims to improve market access, increase transparency in purchasing and provide more consistent opportunities for local sandalwood producers.

This model has the potential to strengthen linkages between rural producers and the formal economy, while creating greater demand for legally sourced and sustainably managed sandalwood. Sandalwood remains an important high-value resource for Vanuatu, and sustainable management is essential to ensuring that the industry can generate economic benefits over the long term. Vanuatu has previously introduced measures aimed at controlling harvesting, encouraging value-added processing and supporting sandalwood planting by landowners.

The establishment of the facility also supports the broader Vanuatu Made agenda by creating a pathway for locally sourced raw materials to be transformed into higher-value products within the country. The initial operation will focus on sandalwood oil distillation and premium sandalwood products, with the company intending to gradually expand its processing capacity and product range.

The business has identified international markets including China, India and Europe for its products, providing an opportunity for Vanuatu to participate further along the international sandalwood value chain. Investor Mr Johan Nortier said the investment is intended to retain more value within Vanuatu while creating stronger opportunities for local growers.

"By processing sandalwood locally, we can support our growers with stronger demand, fair and transparent purchasing, and better long-term opportunities while promoting Vanuatu-made products internationally."

Beyond processing and exports, the project is expected to create more than 20 employment opportunities over time, with the majority of positions expected to be filled by local workers. The investment will also contribute to skills development as workers gain experience in processing, manufacturing and the operation of specialised equipment. The facility therefore represents more than a manufacturing investment. It has the potential to strengthen connections across the sandalwood value chain—from landowners and growers to processors, workers, exporters and international buyers.

VFIPA has supported the investment through its investment facilitation and handholding services, working with the investor and relevant government agencies to support the establishment of the facility in accordance with Vanuatu's regulatory requirements.

The project has involved collaboration among key agencies, including the Department of Forestry, which provides oversight of sandalwood resource management and sustainable harvesting; the Department of Industry, which supports the industrial establishment process; and the Department of Environment, which contributes to ensuring environmental requirements are addressed.

The sandalwood facility is closely aligned with the objectives of Vanuatu's Investment Promotion Strategy 2026–2030, particularly the strategy's focus on attracting and facilitating investment that creates greater domestic economic value.

CEO VFIPA, Aftercare Officer meeting with Ministry of Agriculture

The investment demonstrates how foreign and private capital can contribute to local manufacturing, value addition, employment creation, export development and stronger linkages with local producers. For VFIPA, the project is also an example of investment facilitation moving beyond investment attraction alone. Effective facilitation means helping investors navigate the establishment process while ensuring that investment opportunities generate meaningful linkages with Vanuatu's economy.

The official soft launch of Vanuatu's first sandalwood oil distillation facility in May 2026 marked an important milestone for the country's sandalwood industry. The event brought together government representatives, local stakeholders and international investors to recognise the establishment of a new processing capability in Vanuatu.

As the facility develops, its progress will be closely watched for its contribution to local processing, farmer market access, employment, skills development and export opportunities.

The investment demonstrates the potential for Vanuatu to move further up the value chain—transforming its natural resources into high-value, Vanuatu-made products for regional and international markets.

For VFIPA, the sandalwood processing facility is a strong example of how investment can support the Government's broader economic development priorities while creating opportunities for local communities and businesses.

From growing sandalwood to processing sandalwood, Vanuatu is taking another step toward creating more value at home.

The Vanuatu Foreign Investment Promotion Agency (VFIPA) continues to strengthen its engagement with registered foreign investors through the Annual Survey, an important process for maintaining accurate and up-to-date information on foreign investment activity in Vanuatu.

Behind every registered foreign investment in Vanuatu is a process that ensures applications are properly received, reviewed, assessed, and processed. At VFIPA, this process plays an important role in supporting investors as they navigate the requirements for establishing and operating a foreign investment in Vanuatu.

VFIPA works closely with investors to review applications, verify supporting information and documentation, and ensure that applications progress through the appropriate assessment and registration processes. The Agency also takes a proactive approach to assisting investors, providing guidance, following up on applications, and addressing any information or compliance requirements that may arise.

Through this work, VFIPA helps ensure that investor applications are handled systematically, information is accurately recorded and maintained, and investors receive timely support throughout the registration and ongoing compliance process.

In 2026, VFIPA recorded a total of 1,033 Annual Surveys, reflecting continued engagement by registered foreign investors in providing information on their investment activities and business operations. The Annual Survey is more than an administrative requirement. It provides VFIPA with valuable information that helps the Agency understand the current investment landscape, monitor developments across sectors and identify areas where investors may require further facilitation and support.

Registered foreign investors are reminded that the Annual Survey cut-off date is 28 February each year. The survey relates to the investor's activities and operations during the preceding calendar year. Investors are encouraged to prepare and submit their Annual Survey within the required timeframe and ensure that the information provided is accurate and up to date. The February cut-off provides VFIPA with a consistent annual reporting point, allowing the Agency to consolidate and review investment information and strengthen its understanding of foreign investment activity in Vanuatu.

The 1,033 Annual Surveys recorded in 2026 represent a substantial body of information that contributes to VFIPA's understanding of the foreign investment sector. Accurate and timely investor information is important not only for regulatory and monitoring purposes, but also for helping VFIPA identify opportunities to improve the investment environment and provide more responsive services to the private sector. In this regard, the Registration and Monitoring Team has taken proactive measures to support the timely processing of Annual Survey applications by engaging with investors, following up on outstanding submissions, and assisting investors where clarification or additional information is required. Through continued cooperation with investors and proactive monitoring, VFIPA can build a more comprehensive and reliable investment database to support effective monitoring, informed decision-making, and improved investor services.

Looking Ahead

VFIPA encourages all registered foreign investors to maintain accurate business and investment information and to remain aware of the annual reporting requirement. Investors should take note of the 28 February annual cut-off date and ensure that their Annual Survey is submitted within the required period. VFIPA appreciates the continued cooperation of the investor community and recognises the important role that accurate and timely reporting plays in supporting Vanuatu's investment development.

VFIPA SANTO Investment & Facilitations HIGHLIGHTS

VFIPA Northern Office - Officer Mr. Lee Tabi & Zhongjing Agriculture Group Delegations

Investment Promotion & Facilitation

VFIPA facilitated consultations for Zhongjing Agriculture Group as part of the company's feasibility study and exploration of potential investment opportunities in Santo. Prior to travelling to Santo, the company first met with VFIPA Headquarters in Port Vila to discuss its investment interests, understand the investment environment, and explore potential opportunities in Vanuatu.

Following the initial engagement, VFIPA supported the company's consultations in Santo, bringing together the Sanma Provincial Government, relevant government departments, real estate agents, landowners, and existing farm operators in East Santo. The consultations provided the company with an opportunity to better understand available land and agricultural opportunities, existing farming activities, local conditions and the requirements associated with developing an investment project in Santo.

The engagement demonstrates VFIPA's role in connecting prospective investors with relevant government and local stakeholders and facilitating informed investment exploration in the provinces. This is particularly relevant to Santo's growing focus on agriculture, agro-processing and value-added investment opportunities. Current government initiatives also identify Santo as an important location for agricultural value addition and economic development.

Aftercare & Investor Support

VFIPA conducted a follow-up engagement with Radiant Technologies Ltd., a company associated with a Japanese technology brand, as it progresses its expansion from Malampa into Sanma Province. The engagement builds on discussions initiated in 2024, when VFIPA first engaged with the company regarding its investment interests in Vanuatu. As Radiant Technologies now explores expanding its operations into Santo, VFIPA facilitated follow-up discussions with the Sanma Provincial Government, including the Secretary General (SG), and relevant stakeholders to support the company's expansion and better understand its operational requirements in the province.

VFIPA Northern Office - Officer Mr. Lee Tabi & Mr. Masao

Officer Lee continued to provide investor aftercare and facilitation support to existing businesses in Santo throughout Q2. One key engagement involved Sunshine Store, which is transitioning from its existing wholesale and retail operations towards proposed manufacturing ventures, including Mana Tobacco, Vanua Fresh Biscuit Crust Ltd and Vanua Fresh Fruit Juice Ltd. VFIPA is supporting the business as it explores these diversification and expansion opportunities.

Officer Lee also maintained engagement with several existing businesses in Santo, providing follow-up support, responding to investor enquiries, facilitating communication with relevant government agencies and assisting businesses with issues affecting their operations and potential expansion. These engagements form part of VFIPA's ongoing investor aftercare approach, which aims to maintain strong relationships with existing investors and identify opportunities for business growth, diversification and reinvestment in Sanma Province.

Throughout Q2, the VFIPA Northern Office continued to support businesses and investors in Santo by facilitating registration, application, and compliance processes, with ongoing support and coordination from the Registration and Monitoring Team at VFIPA Head Office in Port Vila.

Sanma Province has demonstrated a clear and sustained upward trend in foreign direct investment (FDI), increasing from 89 projects in 2020 to 164 projects in 2025. This growth reflects the increasing confidence of investors in Sanma's economic potential and the successful implementation of FDI projects across the province. Beyond attracting investment, these projects have contributed significantly to local economic development and employment, generating approximately 2,030 jobs for local people and creating greater opportunities for communities and businesses in Sanma.

Building on this positive momentum, VFIPA is now placing greater focus on Santo, in response to the Government's Economic Corridor policy initiative, which identifies Santo as a key economic hub for northern Vanuatu. With its strategic location, expanding infrastructure, natural resources, tourism potential and growing private sector, Santo presents significant opportunities for further investment and economic diversification. VFIPA's focused investment promotion and facilitation efforts will therefore support the development of Santo as a stronger investment destination and contribute to the Government's broader vision for inclusive and sustainable economic growth.

Spotlight STILL on SANTO: Unlocking Northern Vanuatu's Investment Potential

Espiritu Santo (Santo) continues to emerge as an important destination for investment, supported by its abundant natural resources, growing tourism sector, strategic infrastructure and strong economic potential. As Vanuatu's largest island, Santo offers investors space, resources and opportunities across a range of emerging and established industries.

A Destination with Room to Grow

- Abundant land and natural resources suitable for commercial development
- Growing demand for tourism, accommodation and supporting services
- Opportunities to develop value-added industries using locally produced resources
- Strong potential for private-sector-led economic development

From Resources to Value-Added Industries

- Opportunities to process and add value to local agricultural products such as cocoa, coconut, kava and vanilla
- Potential for fisheries and marine-based enterprises
- Scope for light manufacturing and supporting industries
- Renewable energy opportunities to support sustainable business development

Tourism Beyond the Traditional

- Opportunities for new accommodation, resorts and tourism experiences
- Potential for marine tourism, yacht services and marina development
- Eco-tourism and adventure tourism opportunities built around Santo's natural assets
- Opportunities to develop tourism products that connect visitors with local communities and culture

A Growing Investment Destination

With its combination of natural resources, infrastructure, tourism assets and available investment opportunities, Santo offers investors the opportunity to participate in the island's continued economic development. VFIPA's Northern Office in Luganville provides a local point of contact for investors seeking information, investment opportunities and facilitation support.

VFIPA Expands Its Head Office Operations in the CBD

Local Workers Supporting VFIPA's Head Office Expansion

Local Workers Building VFIPA's Expanded Workspace

VFIPA is pleased to announce the expansion and enhancement of its Head Office in Port Vila, providing staff with a much larger, more comfortable and improved working environment.

The office expansion and extension has created additional workspace, meeting areas and room for collaboration, allowing VFIPA staff to work more comfortably and effectively. The larger space provides a more open, organised and welcoming environment where staff can enjoy improved working conditions while continuing to support investors and deliver the Agency's services.

The expansion comes at an important time as VFIPA continues to strengthen its investment promotion and facilitation activities. Having a more spacious and functional office allows different teams to work more effectively, hold internal discussions, meet with investors and coordinate activities with government agencies, development partners and the private sector.

Importantly, the office expansion was carried out with the involvement of a local company, providing an opportunity for a Vanuatu-based business to contribute its expertise and services to the project. The initiative also supported local employment opportunities, with local workers involved in the construction and improvement of the office facilities.

By engaging a local company for the expansion, VFIPA is also contributing to economic activity within the local community. The project demonstrates how investments in infrastructure can create opportunities beyond the immediate organization, supporting local businesses, contractors and workers.

For VFIPA staff, the expanded office represents more than simply additional floor space. It provides a better working environment that promotes teamwork, communication and collaboration, while giving staff more room to carry out their responsibilities in a comfortable and professional setting.

The improved office will also provide a more welcoming environment for investors and stakeholders visiting VFIPA. A professional and accessible workspace helps create a positive first impression and provides suitable facilities for consultations, meetings and discussions relating to investment opportunities in Vanuatu.

The expansion is therefore an investment not only in VFIPA's physical working environment, but also in its people, its services and the local business community. Staff are looking forward to making full use of the new space and enjoying a more spacious and productive workplace.

VFIPA looks forward to continuing to improve its facilities and working environment while supporting local businesses and creating opportunities for Vanuatu workers. The expanded Head Office will provide a stronger foundation for the VFIPA team as it continues its work to promote investment and support investors throughout Vanuatu. The VFIPA Corporate Team has been working closely to support and coordinate the expansion, ensuring that the project continues to progress smoothly. The team's involvement reflects a shared commitment to creating a better working environment for all VFIPA staff. As the expansion moves forward, staff are looking forward to making full use of the new space and enjoying a more spacious and productive workplace.
